Although Colonel Gorgas and his assistant, Major Noble, of the Medical Corps, have been in South Africa but a short time, the work already done has been extremely beneficial.

The deadly African fevers, such as ravaged the workmen in the mining districts, have been somewhat checked and the mortality has been lessened.

In addition to being made head of the Army Medical Corps, Colonel Gorgas will be elevated to the rank of brigadier-general, the title of his predecessor. Colonel Gorgas entered the Medical Corps in 1885 and in 1913 had risen to the rank of colonel. During the Spanish War he served as a brigade surgeon of the volunteers.

Count Boni de Castellane Expert on Interior Decoration.

Paris, January 16.—Count Boni de Castellane has been making a good income lately by giving wealthy families the benefit of his advice as an expert on interior decoration and artistic house furnishing. Count Boni is thus turning to good account his varied experience as a social butterfly, especially the knowledge gained in furnishing the Petit Trianon, the extravagant expenditures on which led to the first break between the count and his wife, the present Duchess de Talleyrand.
